

age gracefully...

The Abode range of traditionally inspired taps are a perfect match to more classical kitchen design. Whilst all of the kitchen mixertaps capture age-old design values they use the latest modern engineering technology to ensure effortless control of temperature and flow.

The new quarter turn Hargrave Bridge mixertap will perfectly complement any style of kitchen, but is particularly well suited to accompany a classic Belfast ceramic sink.

Its sister product, the Hargrave Monobloc is also intricately styled to reflect the very best in neo-classical design, again with the benefit of the very latest component engineering delivering smoothness in operation and performance.
